DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The three bay facade of this building has been covered with aluminum siding recently, however, prior to that the roof line has been altered and renewed with green asphalt shingles. On the first story are two large plate glass store windows with recessed entrance between. The foundation of the facade is concrete block and the steps are concrete.

The three windows of the second story have green trim and 6/2 sash. The two side walls have not been covered and they retain original board and batten construction on stone foundation. The tops of the battens form the impost for an arched fascia which is unique in the town. Retaining this feature should be a must for restoring this dwelling/store as well as re-installing the scalloped barge board along the lines of the roof.

BUILDER/ARCHITECT

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

This building is important to Chesapeake City architecturally because of the board and batten construction common to the third quarter of the 19th century.

Until the middle 1920's much of the business transacted in Chesapeake City was done on the causeway and near the Masonic Hall. When the U. S. Government decided to make the Canal a sea level waterway, these businesses had to move because the site was to be cleared. Some of the buildings were moved; some were demolished and the shop keepers moved his store from the causeway to this property in 1925.

There have been shops located here for many years, a candy store, a shoe store and a dress shop. George Street was a busy street and shops did well here.

The building is now a dwelling, but is significant for its part in Chesapeake City commerce.
